Verse 1

I should've been suspicious
When Miss Smith passed out the book.
I should've seen that little smile
Her little knowing look.
"Read Chapter One," she told the class,
Her voice so sweet and light.
I should've known right then and there
That something wasn't right.

BRIDGE

But full of trust, I took it home
And read some blah blah text
Then suddenly, right on page 5,
Out popped a mean T-rex.

CHORUS

My teacher tried to kill me
With a dinosaur
My teacher tried to kill me
With a dinosaur
My teacher tried to kill me.....
With a dinosaur.

Verse 2

He had sharp teeth, (the sentence said).
His red eyes were irate.
And here I was alone with him.
And I was only 8!
We wrestled like two mighty beasts.
I felt his fiery breath.
We fought with glowing saber swords.
A battle to the death!

CHORUS

Verse 3

I shoved him back into the book
before he could escape.
I wrapped the book up 15 times
with heavy masking tape.
I dug a hole and buried it
beside the garden shed.
And then, to calm my nerves, I played a video game instead.

BRIDGE

It's just pure luck I'm still alive.
Good thing I never read it.
Miss Smith owes me apologies...
Plus some extra credit.
